As evidenced by my beginner's guide to setting up your bar at home, I love mixing drinks. It's an exciting interest that friends always love to be around for. If you have a friend like me, it's likely that he or she already owns the standard bar tool set you spotted at West Elm, but trust me, there are dozens of other gifts you can give! With under-the-radar spirits and liqueurs and beautiful and professional bar accessories, this gift guide has you covered.

Purely Syrup Infused Simple Syrups ($13) Infused simple syrups are one of the most fun tools for a cocktail enthusiast. You can, of course, make your own, but I love this line of syrups produced by Northern California company Purely Syrup. Their syrups are small-batch, organic, and available in several delicious flavors: classic, ginger root, grapefruit, habanero, and vanilla bean.

Not only are the flavors really versatile for a number of drinks, they're also consistent every time... something you certainly can't say for homemade syrups! I'd recommend picking up three or the whole and letting your friends go wild with experimentation.
