

ASX ANNOUNCEMENT

8 December 2016

DigitalX Partners with Paykii for International Bill-Pay Capability

Highlights:

- AirPocket signs agreement with Paykii, the leading provider for Latin American Bill-Pay coverage
- United States AirPocket users will be able to pay the bills for friends and family in 12 Latin American countries
- This agreement allows AirPocket to offer low-cost Bill-Pay services and generate gross margins of over 100%
- Bill-Pay is the third payment feature in AirPockets three stage roll-out as the only Blockchain-enhanced top-up, Bill-pay and remittance application in the world today

DigitalX Limited (ASX: DCC and “the Company”) is pleased to announce that AirPocket LLC has signed an agreement with Paykii Inc. (Paykii), the leading provider for Latin American Bill-Payment coverage.

The agreement will allow AirPocket users to pay electricity, telephone, internet, cable, water and gas bills from their mobile phone. Users will soon be able to make 24/7 balance inquiries and payments and importantly, the service will cover the largest utility providers in each country.

Bill payment is a crucial expense item, accounting for up to 20% of remittance beneficiary’s expenses with billions of transactions globally according to Paykii and Juniper Research. In Latin-America, bill payments are still heavily cash-based and inconvenient with utility providers shutting off services for one missed payment.

Leigh Travers, CEO of DigitalX commented “The unfortunate reality of cash remittances is the misuse of funds meant to be dedicated to family expenses. With AirPocket, senders will be able to exercise greater control over how funds are spent and take care of their families’ financial obligations in a few clicks of the App.”

The integration of the AirPocket App into AirPocket network is expected to be completed in Q2 2017. AirPocket users simply require the type of bill, the utility provider and the account number of the recipient for a secure, fast and cost-effective transfer. The recipients do not require the AirPocket application and receive same day payment services. Users of AirPocket will receive an AirID, a patent pending digital identity and transaction monitoring system that forms the basis of digitizing transactions to build a credit rating for basic financial services.

Fabian Saide, CEO of PayKii remarked “Paykii is excited to provide AirPocket with cross-border bill payment services. Our service complements AirPocket’s core cash remittance and mobile top-up products while strengthening their customer value proposition resulting in a stickier customer relationship. We look forward to continuing the expansion of our international footprint and opening up further markets in 2017 in support of AirPocket and its users”.
