

ASX ANNOUNCEMENT

8th March 2017

Money Transfers Launched

Further to the previous announcement on 2 March 2017, DigitalX Limited (ASX: DCC and “the Company”) is pleased to announce that the update to its AirPocket app allowing money transfers into certain countries in Latin America went live on Tuesday, 8 March in the USA on Android, with availability for Apple users to follow shortly following usual Apple processes.

AirPocket is the first Blockchain-enhanced mobile payments application in the world, and the launch marks a significant milestone for DigitalX with AirPocket now offering users in select countries the ability to make low-cost cross-border money transfers to their friends and family from the US.

Initially, both El Salvador, with over 1,000 payout locations, and our core market, Mexico with over 14,000 payout locations, are now able to use AirPocket for money transfers, with other countries in Latin America to come online shortly.

Leigh Travers, the Company CEO stated, “This is the first step in our vision to provide low-cost financial services to the underbanked immigrants of the world. While there have been some delays in the launch, the AirPocket technology was not the limiting factor. In a marketplace that still relies heavily on legacy infrastructure, we are more encouraged than ever to provide bank-grade security and Blockchain technology.

“The goal of AirPocket is financial inclusion. Through the use of Blockchain technology we are able to create your digital and financial identity, forming the basis for enhanced access to credit and other financial services for our users.”

Company Acting Chair, Toby Hicks added, “This is a significant milestone for DigitalX, and results from a lot of hard work from the DigitalX team in Australia and the US. However, while the launch marks a significant occasion, it is only the start of the process for DigitalX. We will seek to continue to grow the availability of AirPocket money transfers, not only through Latin America, but in new markets around the world, while at the same time monitoring its use and learning as much from this launch as we can.”

DigitalX was recently selected as a delegate by Australian government bodies for a number of upcoming international events to showcase Australia’s leading Financial Services and Technology companies. We look forward to showcasing the App to potential new markets over the coming weeks.
