ASX ANNOUNCEMENT

25 September 2014

PAYPAL NOW ACCEPTING BITCOIN

Digital CC Limited (trading as digitalBTC) (ASX: DCC) (the “Company” or “digitalBTC”) is pleased to advise that PayPal has announced today that it is now accepting Bitcoin for certain payments.

Further details are available on PayPal's website - <https://www.paypal-community.com/t5/PayPal-Forward/PayPal-and-Virtual-Currency/ba-p/828230> digitalBTC's Executive Chairman, Mr Zhenya Tsvetnenko, stated the move by PayPal was a cornerstone step in the inexorable rise of digital currencies and that digitalBTC's digitalX Pocket, a digital currency wallet (<https://pocket.digitalx.com>), will all offer digital payment functions.

“Digital currencies, such as Bitcoin, offer clear advantages over traditional payments systems. For online sellers involved in transactions across borders it is clearly the way of the future.” said Mr Tsvetnenko.

“This is a watershed moment for the Bitcoin industry with PayPal now adopting it as an approved payment method thus confirming the ongoing adoption of Bitcoin, as consumers increasingly come to recognise the benefits of digital currencies. digitalBTC has software development currently underway to participate in the disruption that digital currencies will bring to the payments sector, and we see revenues from this area as a significant source of future growth.”
